Conclusion

Now that we have introduced our topic and explained our topic in the body paragraphs, we need to finish our paragraph with a conclusion.

Conclusion Part 1

Part 1 of the conclusion is restating the main topic. We don't want to repeat. We want to restate.

Original Topic from intro: Because I am (trait 1), (trait 2), and (trait 3), I (explain what these traits will help you).

Restate: Being (trait 1), (trait 2), and (trait 3), will allow me to be successful in life.

Conclusion Part 1

Part 1 of the conclusion is restating the main topic. We don't want to repeat. We want to restate.

Restate: Being (trait 1), (trait 2), and (trait 3), will allow me to be successful in life.

Conclusion Part 2

The second part is summarizing the main ideas.

Being (trait 1), (trait 2), and (trait 3), will allow me to be successful in life. (Trait 1) will help me (choose a part of paragraph 1). (Trait 2) allows me to (explain what trait 2 helps you do) and being (trait 3) will help my future plans by (explain how it will help).

Conclusion Part 3

The last part is leaving with a broad statement relating to the world and your audience.

Being (trait 1), (trait 2), and (trait 3), will allow me to be successful in life. (Trait 1) will help me (choose a part of paragraph 1). (Trait 2) allows me to (explain what trait 2 helps you do) and being (trait 3) will help my future plans by (explain how it will help). Having these characteristics are a small part of my identity; however, with these I will be able to realize my goals and be successful in the future.
